

10/20/18

Boston MA - Wang Theater
Taped by Ryan Weed
Balcony - Center Right Row 1

This evening, I went with some of the same friends from Friday and also with my wife, Meghan. This show felt like a kick in the teeth. Heavy, loud and bright. A bit much for my wife, but she enjoyed it. Great tracks: Somewhat Damaged, Last, The Perfect Drug. New tracks from trilogy sound great!

It was the 29th anniversary of Pretty Hate Machine and Trent talked about that even though he only played H.L.A.H.

Trent's discussions in between songs are short, but he is so (or appears to be) happy and really looks like he's enjoying himself. Much different from the dark, mysterious guy on stage back in the 90's.

Recording this night was pretty good. I only had to scream twice (end of Somewhat Damaged and beginning of Perfect Drug)

Big thanks to Ryan J. for organizing this. So happy to get to tape a show, as that is not something I've done before. The community is one thing that makes being a fan so much fun!

Almost forgot to mention:

These are stickers from an older fun project I've had for years. Take a few if you'd like!

Enjoy your shows! Can't wait to listen to all of them.

- Ryan Wood